Thousands, sometimes millions of termites live in an underground colony searching for food – wood! They like the wood found in houses to feed colony members and to service the queen termite. Believe it or not, these guys can travel the length of a football field in search of food!

IS IT A TERMITE OR AN ANT?

ANTENNAE: Ants' antennae are elbowed. Termites' antennae are straight.

WAIST: Ants' waists are narrow and pinched. Termites' are thicker.

WINGS: Ants' front pair of wings are longer than the back and don't break off easily. Termites' wings are equal in length and break off easily. (OUCH!)

HOW IT WORKS

1. We inspect the property for signs of termites.
2. We install Sentricon stations in the soil around your home.
3. We service the Sentricon stations by monitoring termite activity, bait the termites until the colony is gone.

Many people are fond of ladybugs because of their colorful appearance. Farmers love them for their appetite because they eat plant-eating insects, which protect crops, but some people don't want them around their homes because they can cause nasal congestion, asthma, and eye irritation.

Silverfish love to eat glue, paper, magazine, book bindings, and photographs. They prefer cool, dark places. Stinkbugs are stinkers not because they eat beans (we're just kidding), but because emit a really stinky odor when threatened. I guess no one should take their food!
